ALLIES GAIN MORE THAN FOUR MILES

BRITISH CREE PNEARER ST. QUENTIN. AMERICANS REPULSE ATTACKS ON MOZELLE FRONT.

(By the Associated Press)
As the allied Macedonian offensive continues to develop, the impression grows that an important major operation may have been begun there. The front there is almost shut off from the world except for official reports and these giving only a few bare details. The attack launched Sunday is still going on and gaining important ground east of Monastir.

American, French and British forces on the western front in France have been carrying out "nibbling" tactics for the last few days and have won local tactical successes at various points. The victory of Marshal Foch's campaign since July 18 may indicate that the allies will not hesitate long before striking a new blow somewhere along the front.

Gains in Macedonia.
Paris, Sept. 18.—Allied forces on the Macedonian front have penetrated to a depth of nearly four and a half miles on a front of fifteen and one-half miles and have captured 4,000 prisoners, according to an official statement by the war office.

St. Quentin British Objective.
London, Sept. 18.—The British this morning attacked northwest of St. Quentin, according to an official report received at the war office this forenoon. Holnon Village, three miles northwest of St. Quentin, has been captured by the British, Field Marshal Haig reports. A German attack last evening under heavy artillery protection at Mouevres, resulted in the British being pushed to the western outskirts of the village.

Americans Repulse Hun Attacks.
With American Army in Lorraine, Sept. 18 (2:30 P. M.)—German infantry attempted an attack on American lines west of the Moselle river Tuesday evening, but were driven back by American artillery fire.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR S. A. T. C.

PRES. GORDON HAS PLANS FOR HOUSING MEN. OUTLOOK FOR CORPS FAVORABLE.

That there will be little difficulty in housing the great number of young men who are enlisting for S. A. T. C. work in East Central normal is the belief of those in charge of the matter. Pres. Gordon and his advisers among the faculty members have made plans for arranging barracks in the normal gymnasium. It is proposed to ceil the large concrete building, install all necessary plumbing and make other improvements necessary for the complete comfort of the men.

Mr. Gordon will provide a dining room for the training corps in the basement of the main building. This basement has been used for this purpose heretofore and with little work it can be made a splendid place for feeding the men.

A swimming pool is also included in the contemplated improvements, says Mr. Gordon. He has conferred with representative business men of the city and it is the consensus of opinion that swimming facilities, with bath rooms, showers and dressing rooms, would not only be an asset to the normal now, but would be a strong drawing card for the summer terms of the school hereafter.

Mr. Gordon is very optimistic over the outlook for the training corps, scores of men having already enlisted and many more are inquiring daily. He thinks we will have far over the required number when the time comes for starting work.

DEFENSE COUNCIL TO ASSIST IN DETECTION OF DESERTERS
Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 18 (Special).—At the request of the War Department all county councils will aid in the detection of deserters from the army and draft evaders, including registrants who have failed to file questionnaires or appear for physical examinations or otherwise comply with the selective service law. Strange men in uniform will be investigated whose presence is not fully accounted for. The cases of unknown civilians of draft age without registration cards will be investigated. Army deserters should be delivered to military posts for disposition and draft deserters will be reported to the local agent of the department of justice.

GERMANS DISBAND 108 BATTALIONS.
With American Army in Lorraine, Sept. 18.—One hundred and eight German infantry battalions, equivalent to twenty divisions, have been disbanded, it is learned, in order to fill the gap made by the past year's fighting. Women and boys are being called to the auxiliary service to replace the men. Five thousand women have already been mobilized for this purpose and boys of 14 are being utilized.

Captured officers say that Germany is virtually tired of the war and no longer hopes to do more than keep what is its own.

Casualty List.
The following casualties are reported by the Commanding General of the American Expeditionary force:
Killed in action ----- 37
Missing in action ----- 7
Wounded severely ----- 71

GLAD TO TESTIFY

Says Watoga Lady, "As To What Cardui Has Done For Me, So As To Help Others."

Watoga, W. Va.—Mrs. S. W. Gladwell, of this town, says: "When about 15 years of age, I suffered greatly... Sometimes would go a month or two, and I had terrible headache, backache, and bearing-down pains, and would just drag and had no appetite. Then... it would last... two weeks, and was so weakening, and my health was awful."

My mother bought me a bottle of Cardui, and I began to improve after taking the first bottle, so kept it up till I took three... I gained, and was well and strong, and I owe it all to Cardui.

I am married now and have 3 children... Have never had to have a doctor for female trouble, and just resort to Cardui if I need a tonic. I am glad to testify to what it has done for me, so as to help others."

If you are nervous or weak, have headaches, backaches, or any of the other ailments so common to women, why not give Cardui a trial? Recommended by many physicians. In use over 40 years. Begin taking Cardui today. It may be the very medicine you need.

With all their boasted efficiency in secret service, the Germans have never been able to learn more of what was going on in an enemy's country than the secret service of the United States. The latest exploit is getting possession of a lot of the most secret correspondence between the Germans and Lenin and Trotsky leaders of the bolsheviks, by which the delivery of these precious documents has been thoroughly established. It proves that they were paid $25,000,000 in gold to betray their country to the Huns and how well they carried out their contract is a matter of recent history. Russia always the most dreaded by the German government as its greatest foreign menace, has been utterly ruined and turned over to Germany bound and gagged. It is to break this unholy alliance between the kaiser and the bolsheviks that the allied nations are now bent. The Czechoslovaks have blazed the way for the destruction of the despots and the Russian people, realizing at last the plight into which they have been placed by these beasts are rising to destroy their power and put an end to the reign of terror.

AT DEATH'S DOOR

"I was talking with my neighbor, Mr. Webb, the other day, regarding the great trouble his stomach had given him. He said he suffered 7 or 8 years, and had been almost at death's door a number of times from acute indigestion and bloating of gas which seemed to shut off his heart action. He said he wouldn't have lived much longer if he hadn't taken Mayr's Wonderful Remedy when he did, which made a well man of him." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Gwin & Mays Drug Co., and Druggists everywhere.

LETTERS FROM SOLDIER BOYS

(The News has been handed a large number of letters from soldier boys. As most of these are to the families of the writers there is more or less of a personal nature in them. Hence we are taking from them and publishing excerpts which we think is of general interest to the public.—Editor.)

From Sergt. Marion F. Taylor. This is one of the most beautiful places I ever saw. Everything is so different from the U. S. A. The towns are so old the houses are covered with rocks or moss and have great stalls around them. You can go out across the country and can't see any frame houses. The people all live in towns and small villages. The place I am stationed was built in the fourteenth century so you can imagine what it looks like. In times past two or three men owned the whole country and the people still hold on to the old time rules.

From L. L. Melton. The following is from a marine to his uncle and aunt, Frank Withers wife. He was stationed at Prison Island when the letter was written. I am doing fine here, have gained ten pounds. I think Uncle Frank has picked a good branch of the service to enter. Almost anything is better than the army. In the navy a fellow gets to travel around and is fed so much better than in the army. We sure are fed good here. It is almost like eating at home.

"I went 'over the top' and killed several 'Germans.' The trenches were real, but the 'Germans' were dummies. Have been taking boxing lessons and bayonet drill. Boxing lessons, bayonet drill and physical exercise take up most of our time as we have had about all the marching we have to do, except in parade. We parade every morning except Saturday and Sunday, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays we have sunset parade.

Monday we had rifle inspection. The fellows who had oil on their guns were unlucky. The inspector would take the oil off the guns and paint the fellows' faces with it. I happened to be lucky enough to have a clean rifle.

From Hub Trimm. Camp Lewis, Wash.—I am willing to go at any time or anywhere; if it is across the pond, all right. The sooner we get the kaiser the sooner we are through with the war, so here goes. If I go across and fail to get back, I will meet you all on the Judgment Day, but I am not going with that thought in mind. I am going with the intention of coming back; I don't intend to stay over there. America is my home and America is what I am fighting for and when America wins we will all have freedom so don't worry about me.

Of course I don't like it because I have always been so I could go anywhere at any time until I came here. That is what I don't like. Another thing is that I was always at home. Although I am not a fighter I am classed higher than a fighter; I am to take care of the fighting boys when they get hurt. I don't know yet what what part of this ambulance company I am going to be but expect I will be an ambulance driver or a mechanic but I am not going to kick at whatever they assign me to; the main thing is to win the war and I don't think that will take much longer. We have the Germans scared and they know they haven't a chance to win so I think they are going to kick the bucket when cold weather strikes them.

From Harry Burden. We are about two days out of New York just returning from France. We are at St. Nazaire. I don't like France at all. Has a very good time while there. I am on a cargo ship. We have no guns. The German submarines are sure thick, but I think we are lucky. We cross in convoys of ships ten to twenty-five in a bunch. I have one more trip across before I am paid off, but guess I shall have to re-enlist.

I believe from the talk over in France the war will last one or two years longer. The Americans are sure doing some fighting and killing a bunch of them. The newspapers don't report half of them. One day while we were in France 7,000 were killed in thirty minutes.

From Virgil Auld. This is a beautiful country but the people are a hundred years behind the times. Some of the oldest buildings in the world are here. Half the people wear wooden shoes. The trains are quite peculiar and old fashioned cars something like the old stage coaches.

I am feeling better than I ever did in my life and hope we shall see action soon.

It rains here as regularly as the days go by, but the roads are all stone or gravel so it doesn't make much difference.

They raise lots of wheat and oats. These are their principal crops. They cultivate the hills and live in the valleys, and the steeper the hill the better the crop.

If the average American boy could see the condition the French people are in he could quickly see what we are fighting for. The American people don't know what hard times are and the French women do more work than the average American man.

We have lots of fun counting our money in centimes and trying to talk this lingo they put out, but that is fine amusement. I don't think it will take me long to pick it up.

From Gus Gaar. I would have enjoyed the trip better if I hadn't been seasick about half the time the last day. It is the rocking of the boat that makes anyone sick. So just imagine yourself swinging in a swing until it makes you sick, then just to keep on swinging, and you have an idea how a fellow feels.

After landing, we marched up through the streets of a certain French town and it was one pitiful sight to see. I believe they are all

Traveling by Music

Do you ever yearn to visit strange lands? Does the unrest, the longing for adventure ever seize you? Do you pine for the tropics' starry night, the waving palms and the trade-winds blowing cool against your brow? Or the magic mystery of the East, the crowded bazaars where the treasures of the Orient are spread before you—do you ever feel their call?

Music will transport your soul wherever you desire to send it. The lit of the danza will take you South in an instant, laying before you the gay romance of the pleasure-loving Latins. Or the haunting, hovering chant of the Hindu will bring to your senses the calm inscrutability of the Temples, the scent of sandalwood, and the riotous color of the markets.

Music, in its appeal to the emotions, knows neither the limitations of time nor space.

You may travel in music if you wish. The entire realm of musical art is at your disposal through the medium of beggars. Little kids would run along with us, holding out their hands for us to give them something. I reached in my pocket and got a penny and held it out, and half a dozen kids run up and had a scramble reaching for it. Finally, we stopped and fell out to rest. Here came the mothers with all kinds of nuts to sell. We bought nuts from them, and actually their kids would come right in behind them and beg for the nuts. You give the nuts to them and they will put them back in the basket for their mothers to sell again.

The people are very commonly dressed, and almost all wear wooden shoes. Most all of the houses are built of stone, and in this one house they live and keep their horses, cows, hogs, chickens and everything else they have. Five or six acre garden spot is all of the ground they have, and this is surrounded with a stone fence or the earth heaped up for a ride around in their horse-drawn carts pulled by one horse or if the load is very heavy, they hitch another horse in front.

The other evening, four girls from Paris came out and entertained us with some good music and singing. I enjoyed hearing them sing if I couldn't understand what they said. I think the American girls have got the French girls beat bad for looks.

My address: Privt. Augustus G. Gaar, Veterinary Hospital Unit No. 7, American Expeditionary Force, via New York City.

From John Bailey. Dear Friends:—As it would be impossible for me to write a personal letter to all my friends will take this method of writing.

We landed here Thursday the 5th, the train quit the track at Sherman and we were delayed some 2 or 3 hours. Eat supper at Ft. Worth at 10 and next meal the next day at 1, and believe me there was some eating taken place. Bryan Robinson, Frank Colbert and myself are "buddies" in the same tent. We turn out at 5:45 in the morning and turn off lights at 9 o'clock and taps at 10. We eat out of mess kits, have plenty to eat and a good place to sleep, and after we get out of quarantine will have plenty of amusement. We got our shot and uniforms the Saturday after we landed. Some of the boys had to go to the hospital as the results. We will get to go to town next Saturday. Our sergeant informed us this morning Saturday and Sunday are holidays in the army, except the ones detailed to do the work. The Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. do all they can to make life pleasant.

The Knights of Columbia and "Y" furnishes us all the stationery we want. Every Monday is parade day. As recreation we have music, the very best and at the close of the service, "The Star Spangled Banner. Well for fear I make my letter too lengthy will close. Would like to hear from all the Pontotoc County girls that care to write. Will answer all. John Bailey, 1st Casual Reg., Recruit Co. No. 16, Camp Logan, Houston, Texas.

My Boy Will Come Back.

(By Katherine M. Giesy, Niedmont, West Virginia.)
As I sit alone in the twilight,
Thinking of days of yore,
A vision arises before me
Of a brown eyed babe I bore.

In fancy methinks I see him,
As he climbs upon my knee,
And oh how I long for those by gone days,
As his smile comes back to me.

They called him little sunbeam,
And well it seemed they might
For his little face was wreathed in smiles,
And his eyes were oh, so bright.

But now he has grown to manhood,
Stalwart, brave and true,
With a quiet, gentle manner
And that same sweet smile there too.

Then the nation's call came ringing
To enlist without delay,
And proudly he donned the khaki
And sailed with the U. S. A.

His father and I were proud of him,
For he was our only boy,
But his country said, "We want you"
And they took away our joy.

And as I bade him a fond farewell
And watched his face the while,
'Twas ever the same little brown eyed boy,
And ever the same sweet smile.

And as night in her gray mantle
Closes,
And I bow on low bended knee,
Something seems softly to murmur
That my boy will come back to me.

To Whom It May Concern:
Mr. John Keltner wishes to make a correction in regard to the item that appeared in the Tuesday Evening News, as he denies the charge of "bestowing bouquets on the bachelor maids," who entertained at 119 N. Mississippi last Monday evening.

YOUNG FRENCH HERO LANDS IN AMERICA

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Lieut. Marcel Levie, a blood kin of Napoleon I., wears as marks of his two and a half years of active service with the French army seven wound stripes, five service stripes, the emblem of the Legion of Honor, the French War Cross, the British military cross, the cross of St. Stanislaus, the Regimental Fauragere and the bar pin of gallantry.

Lieut. Levie, who was born 23 years ago in Normandy of a family that hailed from Corsica, is visiting America to tell what France has suffered in the war.

"And already I am part American," for I purchased a new glass eye in New York," he told the crowds at the big war exposition in progress here. "Various wounds have reduced my sight to four per cent and ended my chances of returning to battle."

It was at Champagne in 1914 that the first bullet bored into Lieut. Levie's arm. Three months later at Argonne two dum-dums removed a piece of his shoulder, and in the February following a hand grenade sprinkled into his face and loaded his legs while he was charging over No Man's Land.

He staggered along blindly and fell over an embankment a few yards from the German trenches. There he remained for ten hours and during lulls in the battle the Germans took pot shots at the French "corpses" until his uniform fell off in shreds. He was rescued later and in seven months was back fighting in Flanders, where stretcher bearers again gathered him up to have gas drained from his lungs.

On Christmas day, 1915, a cluster of bullets paralyzed his left side. He staggered into the German trenches and for three months was a prisoner, wandering about demented. Finally there was an exchange of wounded, and in February of 1916 Levie was on the battle front again at Verdun. But shrapnel ripped off his left eye and closed his right, and he received a bullet in the back at short range. He lay in a shell hole four days before being rescued.

"Then I realized, with great mental pain, that my part of the fighting was over," he said.

STATE QUOTAS BASED ON COUNTY DEPOSITS

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 18.—(Special).—That every man, woman and child in Oklahoma must realize his individual responsibility in the winning of the war is the aim of L. E. Phillips, State Chairman for the Oklahoma Division of the Fourth Liberty Loan. Organization down to the smallest units will be effected and reports show that state-wide organization is well under way.

In this campaign all subscriptions in each county will be handed over to the auditor of the Liberty Loan Committee daily with money collected. The Liberty Loan auditor will make proper records and redistribution of subscriptions to the banks for forwarding to the Federal Reserve Banks.

Individual deposits in county banks will form the basis for that county's quota and the total of all county quotas will form the state quota. Equitable recognition of the over-loaded condition of some banks will be made, in order that the determination of quotas shall be uniform.

In the absence of the official announcement of the amount of the loan, which is expected to be in the neighborhood of five billion dollars, county chairmen have received the suggestion that a tentative assessment be made on a basis of adding two-thirds to the county quotas in the Third Liberty Loan.

The government needs the money and not the subscription, the state chairman declares, and men will be expected to give up to but not exceeding their limit.

As a protection to the public and to investors the treasury department will encourage original issues of registered bonds.

DEMONSTRATION OF AMERICA'S RESOURCES

(By the Associated Press) Philadelphia, Sept. 18.—America's vast shipbuilding program has opened the eyes of the world to her tremendous possibilities, recently declared Peter O. Knight, vice president and general counsel of the American International Shipbuilding Corporation, which operates the big plant at Hog Island.

"It is the best possible evidence that we intend to stick," he said. "The Japanese visitors counted the 50 ways, one by one and exclaimed: 'Why, we have only ten more ways in our whole country than you have in this one yard.' And Lord Reading, of England, declared that it typified the limitlessness of America."

"Others ask how we can do such things, and they learn that at the beginning of the war the wealth of the United States was $250,000,000,000, compared with $85,000,000,000 as the wealth of Great Britain, $80,000,000,000 for Germany and $50,000,000,000 for France."

"We have half the total banking resources of the world. Since the war began we have bought back $4,000,000,000 of securities, loaned $7,000,000,000 to Allies and extended credit to Allies and business concerns to the amount of $7,000,000,000 more. We have carried on the enlarged business of the country and a war costing us $50,000,000 a day."

"And America's wealth has increased since August, 1914. It has one-fourth of the commerce of the globe and has accumulated a third of the gold supply of the world. So great is the nation's wealth that even this war cannot deplete it. Informed Germans or citizens of other nations cannot think Germany can win with America against her."

SELLING RUSSIAN INTO GERMANY SLAVERY

(By the Associated Press)

Washington, Sept. 18.—German trickery is breaking the Ukraine away from the bought-and-paid-for Bolshevik government plots against loyal Russian soldiers and their leaders to insure complete German sway after the false peace conference at Brest-Litovsk and further evidence of the precautions of the Teutons against Bolshevik preaching in their own ranks, are shown in today's installment of secret documents from Russia made public by the United States government.

Communications written in January disclose that the Bolsheviks were fully informed of what the Germans were doing in the Ukraine, and knew that peace treaties with the Ukraine and Rumania were coming. They also learned quickly enough that Germany was disposing of their hopes to see their revolutionary propaganda take root on German soil.

Notes from the German intelligence sent to Trotsky, the commissar of foreign affairs, show first that a Turk with a Russian passport was sent to Petrograd to keep watch over the Russian commander-in-chief and that a month afterwards, late in February, removal of the commander-in-chief, General Bonch Bruevich, was demanded. Bruevich, whose continuance in the position was particularly no longer desirable to the Germans, was turned out and General Parski, named by the German intelligence service, was appointed to command the Petrograd district.

Another note from the intelligence service complains that "the agents sent to kill Generals Kaledine, Bogachyev and Alexiev, were cowardly, non-enterprising people. This same document shows that as long ago as December, 1917, former German prisoners of war were being dressed in Russian uniform to fight loyal Russian soldiers.

GERMANY GUILTY OF BARBARITIES IN WAR CONDUCT

Atrocious Treatment of the Helpless Part of Campaign Plans of Military Leaders.

POLICY OF FRIGHTFULNESS

Terrorism Declared a Necessary Principle in National Warfare—Brutalities May Be Said to Be Directly Attributable to the Emperor Himself.

The committee on public information, appointed by the president, and consisting of The secretary of state, secretary of war, secretary of the navy, and George Creel, official censor, has made public a mass of evidence dealing with German war practices which shows the Kaiser's leaders in the field and in command of captured points to be directly responsible for the beastliness which has characterized the operations of the "Huns" in the present conflict. Quotations from the pamphlet follow:

For many years leaders in every civilized nation have been trying to make warfare less brutal. The great landmarks in this movement are the Geneva and Hague conventions. The former made rules as to the care of the sick and wounded and established the Red Cross. At the first meeting at Geneva, in 1864, it was agreed, and until the present war it has been taken for granted, that the wounded, and the doctors and nurses who cared for them, would be safe from all attacks by the enemy. The Hague conventions, drawn up in 1890 and 1907, made additional rules to soften the usages of war and especially to protect noncombatants and conquered lands. Germany took a prominent part in these meetings, and with the other nations solemnly pledged her faith to keep all the rules except one article in the Hague regulations. This was article 44, which forbade the conqueror to force any of the conquered to give information. All the other rules and regulations she accepted in the most binding manner.

But Germany's military leaders had no intention of keeping these solemn promises. They had been trained along different lines. Their leading generals for many years have been urging a policy of frightfulness. In the middle of the nineteenth century Von Clausewitz was looked upon as the greatest military authority, and the methods which he advocated were used by the Prussian army in its successful wars of 1866-1871. Consequently because these wars had been successful, the wisdom of Von Clausewitz's methods seemed to the Prussian army to be fully proved.

Policy of Frightfulness.

Now, the essence of Von Clausewitz's teachings was that successful war involves the ruthless application of force. In the opening chapter of his master work, "Vom Kriege" ("On War"), he says:

"Violence arms itself with the inventions of art and science. Self-imposed restrictions, almost imperceptible and hardly worth mentioning, accompanied it without essentially impairing its power. . . . Now, philanthropic souls might easily imagine that there is a skillful method of disarming or subduing an enemy without causing too much bloodshed, and that this is the true tendency of the art of war. However plausible this may appear, still it is an error which must be destroyed; for in such dangerous things as war, the errors which proceed from a spirit of 'good-naturedness' are precisely the worst. As the use of physical force to the utmost extent by no means excludes the co-operation of the intelligence, it follows that he who uses force ruthlessly, without regard to bloodshed, must obtain a superiority, if his enemy does not so use it."

In 1877-78, in the course of a series of articles upon "Military Necessity and Humanity," General von Hartmann wrote, in the same spirit as Von Clausewitz:

"The enemy state must not be spared the want and wretchedness of war; these are particularly useful in shattering its energy and subduing its will. 'Individual persons may be harshly dealt with when an example is made of them, intended to serve as a warning. . . . Whenever a national war breaks out, terrorism becomes a necessary military principle.' 'It is a gratuitous illusion to suppose that modern war does not demand far more brutality, far more violence, and an action far more general than was formerly the case.'"

In 1881 Von Moltke, who had been commander in chief of the Prussian army in the Franco-Prussian war, declared:

"Perpetual peace is a dream and not even a beautiful dream. War is an element in the order of the world established by God. By it the most noble virtues of man are developed, courage and renunciation, fidelity to duty and the spirit of sacrifice—the soldier gives his life. Without war, the world would degenerate and lose itself in materialism."

ism. "The soldier who endures suffering, privation and fatigue, who courts dangers, cannot take only 'in proportion to the resources of the enemy.' He must take all that is necessary to his existence. One has no right to demand of him anything superhuman." "The great good in war is that it should be ended quickly. In view of this, every means, except those which are positively consummate, must be permitted. I cannot, in any way, agree with the declaration of St. Petersburg when it pretends that 'the weakening of the military forces of the enemy' constitutes the only legitimate method of procedure in war. No! One must attack all the resources of the enemy government, his finances, his railroads, his stock of provisions and even his prestige."

Many other examples might be cited from the writings of German generals. The very best illustration of this attitude, however, is to be found in the emperor's various speeches, and especially in his speech to his soldiers on the eve of their departure for China in 1900. On July 27 the Kaiser went to Bremerhaven to bid farewell to the German troops. As they were drawn up, ready to embark for China, he addressed to them a last official message from the fatherland. The local newspaper reported his speech in full. In it appeared this advice and admonition from the emperor, the commander in chief of the army, the head of all Germany:

Soldiers Told to Be Merciless.

"As soon as you come to blows with the enemy he will be beaten. No mercy will be shown! No prisoners will be taken! As the Huns, under King Attila, made a name for themselves, which is still mighty in traditions and legends today, may the name of Germany be so fixed in China by your deeds, that no Chinese shall ever again dare even to look at a German soldier. . . . Open the way for Kultur once for all."

Even the imperial councilors seem to have been shocked at the emperor's speech, and efforts were promptly made to suppress the circulation of his exact words. The efforts were only partly successful. A few weeks later, when the letters from the German soldiers in China were being published, in local German papers, the leading socialist newspaper, Vorwaerts, excerpted from them reports of atrocities under the title "Letters of the Huns." Many of the leaders in the reichstag felt very keenly the brutality of the emperor's speech. The obnoxious word "Huns" had excited almost universal condemnation. When the reichstag met, in November, the speech was openly discussed. Herr Lieber of the center (Catholic party), after quoting the "no mercy" portion of the speech, added, "There are, alas, in Germany groups enough who have regarded the atrocities told in the letters which have been published as the dutiful response of soldiers so addressed and encouraged." The leader of the social democrats, Herr Bebel, spoke even more pointedly. Toward the end of a two-hour address on the atrocities committed by the German soldiers in China and on the speech of the emperor, he said:

"If Germany wishes to be the bearer of civilization to the world, we will follow without contradiction. But the ways and means in which this world policy has been carried on thus far, in which it has been defined by the emperor . . . are not, in our opinion, the way to preserve the world position of Germany; to gain for Germany the respect of the world."

The consequences of the emperor's speech Bebel aptly described: "By it the signal was given, garbed in the highest authority of the German empire, which must have most weighty consequences, not only for the troops who went to China but also for those who stayed at home. An expedition of revenge so barbarous as this has never occurred in the last hundred years and not often in history; at least, nothing worse than this has happened in history, either done by the Huns, by the Vandals, by Genghis Khan, by Tamerlane, or even by Tilly when he sacked Magdeburg."

Atrocities in China.

These atrocities in China or "Letters of the Huns" continued to be published in the Vorwaerts for several years and appeared intermittently in the debates of the reichstag as late as 1906. At that time the socialist, Herr Kunert, reviewing the procedure in a trial of which he had been the victim in the previous summer, stated that he had offered to prove "that German soldiers in China had engaged in wanton and brutal ravaging; that plunder, pillage, extortion, robbery, as well as rape and sexual abuses of the worst kind, had occurred on a very large scale and that German soldiers had participated in them." He had not been given an opportunity to prove his allegations, but had been sentenced to prison for three months for assailing the honor of the "whole German army." The outrageousness of this sentence was made clear by the revelations, made in the reichstag shortly afterwards, of similar atrocities committed by German officials and soldiers in Africa in the campaign against the Hereros.

For the guidance of the officers in case the inhabitants of conquered territory should take up arms against the German army, the "German War Book" quotes with approval the letter Napoleon sent to his brother Joseph: "The security of your dominion depends on how you behave in the conquered province. Burn down a dozen places which are not willing to submit themselves. Of course, not until you have first looted them; my soldiers must not be allowed to go away with their hands empty. Have three to six persons hanged in every village which has joined the revolt; pay no respect to the clergymen (that is, to members of the clergy)."

SHOULD ENROLL IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS NOW

It is very important that parents enroll their children in the public schools now. All classes are at the beginning of the term's work and all children entering now have equal chances. If they enter later, they will be behind in their work and will have poor chance to catch up. Especially is this true in the lower grades. Children coming within the school age this year and entering school for the first time must enter this week. We cannot afford to organize a new class for every beginner that enters late. The child that has never been to school can't skip three or four weeks work and the teacher cannot organize a new class for those dropping in late. The law requires attendance, and common sense as well as parental regard, demand it. There are too many children in Ada that are not in school. Public education and democracy go hand in hand. The fellow that disregards public education disregards democracy and the fellow that disregards democracy is a slack. There is absolutely no excuse for not taking advantage of education when it is free. If there are people in this district who are not able to buy books or clothing for their children, they should let the school authorities know about it. Some provision will be made for such. Parents who have not started their children to school should do so at once and then keep them going. Intelligent leadership in the future will come from the boys and girls of today who are in school. The responsibility is on the parent to see to it that the child gets the opportunity due him now. —J. E. Hickman.

RED CROSS ADVISES PURCHASERS BEWARE

It was reported that agents were taking orders here for Stoddard's lectures, representing that part of the profits were being given to the Red Cross. Mrs. Orville Snead asked the Southwestern division of the Red Cross for information and in reply received a telegram and letter stating that such is not the case and furthermore the books have been withdrawn from sale by the publishers, hence subscribers are likely not to get any books on their orders. Subscribers are advised to report to the county attorney if the sales continue.

RED CROSS NOTES.

Ladies don't forget the surgical dressings. The attendance is unusually small. They only work four days in the week now and should have good attendance.

We made a wonderful shipment of knitting yesterday: 90 helmets, 140 pairs of socks; 170 sweaters; 40 mufflers. We also shipped 200 hospital bed shirts; 195 pairs of drawers.

Since July 1st Pontotoc County Chapter has shipped 238 helmets, 647 pairs of socks, 317 sweaters and 40 mufflers.

We have gone far beyond our quota in every thing except socks. Would have had our socks but could not get yarn.

BRITISH AND FRENCH MAKE GOOD HEADWAY

(By the Associated Press) British Armies in France, Sept. 18.—Field Marshal Haig's forces this morning attacked German positions on a considerable front northwest of St. Quentin. Simultaneously French troops carried out an operation on the right. Successful progress was made on both fronts.

French Repel Attacks. Paris, Sept. 18.—German troops last night launched violent counter attacks against French positions on the plateau northeast of Nancy, seven miles northwest of Soissons. The French war office statement today says the German attacks were unsuccessful and that French troops maintained their positions.

DADDY'S EVENING

THE HELPFUL DOG

"There are heroes of many kinds," said Daddy, "brave men who fight for liberty, firemen who do not fear burning houses and who rescue people under all sorts of danger to themselves. There are those who will go in the water after people who have become exhausted and who have not been able to swim any more and so have cried for help. And this is very dangerous for the rescuer, as often these people get nervous and so frightened that they don't half realize what they are doing and try to pull their rescuer under the water in their efforts to grab him."

"Then there are brave policemen and many splendid, brave people in the world, but besides people there are many horses and dogs who do fine things."

"We have all heard of the dogs who have saved children from the water, and of those who have saved people from fires. In fact, sometimes, some of us feel very much ashamed when we think how fine are the creatures who can't talk and understand and know all we do."

"But they do know so much, especially dogs and horses, and yet there are many, many others who show us all the time what a great, great deal they do know."

"This evening I want to tell you of a dog who was helpful, very helpful."

"His master and his mistress and all the friends of his master and mistress were working very hard."

"They were trying to raise money for the Red Cross organization so that a great deal of suffering could be made less, and a great deal of comfort taken to thousands of people.

"The dog was a beautiful white dog. He had a handsome head, and such beautiful white fur that to look at him any one would think that he was simply a dog who liked to be petted and spoiled, and that he was selfish and enjoyed sitting on a velvet cushion, or going for a drive in a beautiful motorcar."

"That is you might have thought all that until you looked into his face. For by the look in his eyes you could tell in an instant how fine he was. His eyes were so clear, so intelligent. He looked at you wisely, as if he wanted to know all he could, and wanted to let you know that he tried to be a good, sensible dog."

"I wonder," his master said one day, "if we couldn't give some work to Whitley to do?"

"And the other members of the family said:

"Well, we'll all be so busy that Whitley won't get a great deal of attention—that is we can't have so many walks and romps. It would be nice if he could help us in this work of collecting the money to help everybody who is suffering."

"Now Whitley barked and wagged his tail. His eyes seemed to be trying to speak for him as he barked his bow-wow-wow. He was trying to say: 'Let me work, too. I would like to help. I want to be a useful dog.'"

"I have an idea," said his master. "What? The others all asked."

"We'll have him collect too. He can wear a harness across his back, a nice light harness, and attached to it can be a Red Cross box. Then he can have a little bell attached to his collar so that it will ring as he runs along. We'll see how much money he can get in his box."

"From all the talking Whitley knew that something had happened and that it was about him. How pleased he was! He barked for joy."

"The very next day Whitley wore the box, and not only did his bell ring as he ran along, but he went up to people as they passed, barked pleasantly at them and then shook his box. They could see what was written on the box, and too, they had read in the paper of the work Whitley was doing. And almost everyone put money in Whitley's little box."

"He barked at people in the business section and then he would run down near where the great ships were, and get collections from the shipping people."

"He knew when he had a good day for his box rattled merrily then with lots and lots of coins, and his master was so proud of him."

"And in several months Whitley, the dog, collected more than five thousand dollars to help grown people!"

The United States government is determined to get one million men to prosecute the work of supplying the necessary sinews of war.
